

SALVATION FARMS

Lamoille Valley Gleaning

Serving farmers and eaters in Vermont's Lamoille Valley. We engage and feed the community through collecting and distributing what farmers can't sell.

Gleaning is the act of reaping after the harvest.

During 2018

- Collected 53 types of fruits and vegetables from 19 farms
- Distributed 210,501 servings of nutritious crops to 31 sites
- Engaged 215 individual volunteers including 19 different service groups, corporate teams, or youth programs

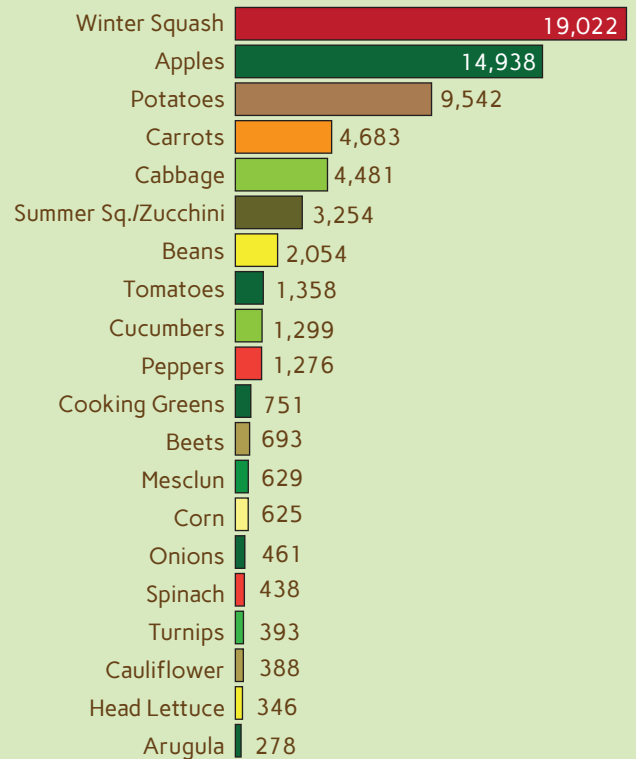

People Power

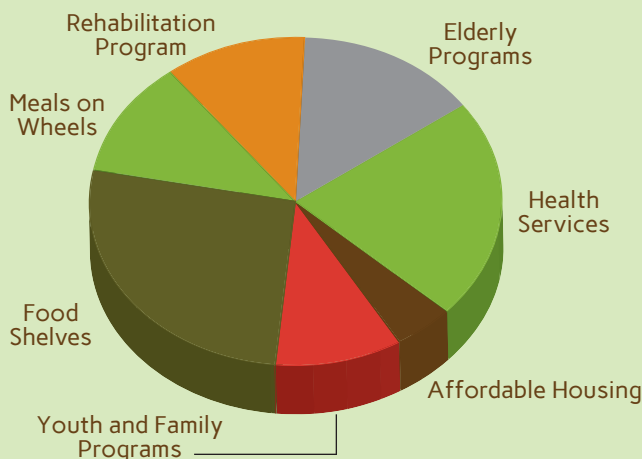

- 786 volunteer hrs gleaning from fields, wash/pack houses, and farmers markets
- 151 volunteer hrs delivering produce to recipient sites
- 21 volunteer hours supporting outreach and other projects

Produce Donated (in pounds)

Who We Feed

*Produce also goes to our Winooski food hub for statewide distribution

What Our Partners Say

"SF is an incredible org & provides our farm with a way to distribute our excess produce to the community."
- Taylor, High Mowing Organic Seeds Farm Lead

"I found myself stopping at small local farms during growing season for my fruits and veggies instead of the produce aisle at the grocery store."
- Meg, Delivery Volunteer

"As we care for our residents, good nutrition is a major component to their healing. Thank you all for your part in this work."
- Lloyd, Teen Challenge Program Supervisor
